Fort and Queen Streets
Opposite H. Hackfeld & Co.Mr. Workingman!

Sit down here! Light 'up! Let's talk!

Are you a Democrat or Republican—don't matter after the election's over.

Paying rent. Why?

Rot! The big house of the richer man is only a few rooms in which to eat or sleep. And, say, believe me! there's more sleep in a 4-roomed cottage!

The beautiful garden of the big house is only the work of a paid laborer. YOU can copy it with a few rocks, trees, flowers, cement and fish.

The size of the lot is only the size of the pocketbook.

The beefsteak is just as nourishing in the 8 x 10 room as in the 20 x 40.

Six hens will lay just as fresh eggs as a coop of sixty.

The smile of the family generally means more with meals of two courses than with six.

The few cents deposited in Savings Bank every week means smiling faces, while the fluctuating balance of the rich brings on "Nerves".

All of which sermon means: I can build you a new bungalow on small lot and sell you the whole thing for $750!

At a conference yesterday afternoon between members of the finance committee of the house of representatives and the board of harbor commissioners, it is understood that there was an argument over the details of the merits of House Bill 180, a bill drawn for the purpose of making the wharves nearly self-supporting as may be. The argument in favor of the measure advanced by the members of the harbor board is to the effect that, inasmuch as the big importing corporations in Honolulu have benefited from the construction and repair of wharves along the waterfront, they should help defray some of the expenses incident to such improvements. The preliminary discussion in committee yesterday over the bill is regarded as only a harbinger of the storm that may be brewing in the house. It is stated on hearing in the house. It has been stated upon good authority that the passage of the measure will be bitterly contested.

FIGHT FOR PROBE
BILL SHORT,
DECISIVE

For the first time this session and one of the few times during the four terms he has served as speaker, H. L. Holstein took the floor yesterday afternoon to lead in the battle for a favored measure. The resultant conflict was short, sharp and decisive, victory going to the forces led by the speaker, and senate bill 78, providing the commission for the investigation of Hawaii county financial affairs, passed by a large, safe margin.

Just before the struggle there had been some doubt, though small, of the measure's passage. It had been figured that about nine representatives would oppose it, though there was still the chance that the minority might succeed in so amending it that its usefulness might be ruined.

By his consummate skill as parliamentarian, as orator and debater, the speaker saved it from the destructive operations. Only one amendment was made. That does not affect materially the measure's workings, and the amendment probably will be concurred in by the senate and sent to the chief executive, who already has gone on record in the bill's favor. Hence, it is a question now only of time; a few days at the most, before house bill 78 becomes law.

Denying antagonism to the spirit of the measure, yet leading an onslaught that would have killed it, Representative Archer Irwin, of Hilo, succeeded in getting three amendment proposals before the house, but after that he found it practically impossible to gain the floor. By parliamentary tactics Holstein held him in his seat.

Just once he was permitted to come to his feet after Holstein had begun his masterly attack. That was when the Republican leader read an excerpt from the Star-Bulletin of Tuesday, in which Irwin was quoted as saying that the bill was part of a political game played by R. W. Breckons, with Holstein's assistance. Holstein, reading the statement and remarking that it was so ridiculous he "could not believe the member in question made such a statement," asked if it were correct. Then Irwin, with the chance presented, briefly replied something to the effect that "it was not exactly."

Once or twice he sought to interrupt his opponent by a question, but was cut short by the latter's statement that "he declined to be interrupted." Holstein would permit no discussion after he had put a motion, seeking the privileged question always, compelling a vote and forcing the opposition members to fret and chafe in their seats as they watched the tide set against them. Holstein was careful to see that his was the last word spoken before each ballot was taken—and that word was Irwin's irrefutable. When others spoke, they spoke before him, and then he tore their argument to bits like paper. He made no long speeches, the one of greatest duration probably being on the third proposed amendment, to let the territory instead of Hawaii county bear the expense. Then he spoke probably for five minutes, but much of that time was given to the reading of names of the leading business and civic organization men of Hawaii who had sent wireless messages urging that the county bear the burden of the probe.

Irwin's first amendment was to compel all hearings of the commission to be held in the county of Hawaii. Holstein moved to table it, and the resultant ballot, to table, was as follows: Ayes—Coney, C. H. Cooke, G. P. Cooke, Goodness, Huddy, Kaana, Kapike, Kinslea, Makekau, Sheldon, Spalding, Tavares, Waihalo, Watkins, Wilcox and Holstein—15.
Noes—Asch, da Silva, Irwin, Kalakiela, Kanlio, Kawewehi, Kuphea, Lyman, McCandless, Paele, Paxson, Peepoe, Robertson and Wilcox—14.

It will be noticed that the absence of J. K. Lota, who was ill and unable to be present, gave the Holstein forces their victory by only one vote. Kinslea, the only Democrat to vote with the majority, undoubtedly gave them the triumph, but this seemed to break the backbone of the opposition.

The second amendment, to take the handling of the commission's finances out of the attorney general's hands and place it in the possession of the commission, was conceded to by Holstein, moving that it be agreed to. This was done unanimously by a showing of hands.

On the third amendment, to strike out all of section 12, which requires Hawaii county to assume the expense of the inquiry, Holstein again moved to table, and the vote on his motion was as follows:

Ayes—Coney, C. H. Cooke, G. P. Cooke, Goodness, Huddy, Kaana, Kapike, Kawewehi, Kinslea, Makekau, Paxson, Robertson, Sheldon, Spalding, Tavares, Waihalo, Watkins, Wilcox and Holstein—15.

Noes—Asch, da Silva, Irwin, Kala-kiela, Kanlio, Kuphea, Lyman, McCandless, Paele and Peepoe—10.

Those who went over to the majority on this amendment were Kawewehi, Paxson, Robertson and Wilcox.

On the final vote, to pass the measure, the majority received further reinforcements from Asch, da Silva and McCandless.

Norman K. Lyman was the only Republican to stand consistently throughout the struggle against the bill, voting with the Democratic minority all three times.

Higato, a Japanese, placed under arrest by Special License Officer Penell, was sentenced to pay a fine of one hundred dollars, following a hearing before Judge Monsarrat at police court. The Japanese was found guilty of selling liquor without a license.

Kaupana, a Hawaiian, was sent to the reef for thirty days, the charge being alleged that in resisting an officer he administered a series of kicks on the shin of Officer Olson. The defendant was included in a number of persons found present at a gambling game.
